RAID BY BARROWS NETS THIRTY-TWO BARRELS OF WINE

Cellars of Eugene Canarraci Found to Contain Large Supply of Liquor.

Chief of Police Barrows accompanied by Patrolmen Ives and Richardson, together with a detachment of the city police, raided the cellars of Eugene Canarraci, 399 W. Third st., and 23 barrels in the cellar of an adjoining building also owned by Canarraci.

23 barrels were last night loaded on trucks and brought to the police station every one of which was filled with wine known as "Dago Red" and "California White" all said to contain alcohol over the percentage permitted.

Entering the home of Canarraci, just as two persons were leaving the house, Barrows gained admittance to the cellar where he discovered two large vats, one six feet high and five and one-half feet in diameter. Crap presses and over two thousand bottles were also stored in the cellar.

From beneath the cement floor of the cellar, many bottles, said to contain 18 years old wine, were brought forth. At a first glance many of the barrels were thought to be empty and the chief and his detail commenced a search of the adjoining building. Three padlocks on the door forced the officers to break it open. Here they found a number of empty kegs, over one dozen glasses and 22 full barrels of rich red liquor.

Canarraci is a brother of Gustavo Canarraci, who was fined $290 and costs by Judge Rankin and sentenced to 90 days in jail recently. The sentence was suspended, however, as it was Canarraci's first time before any court.

Eugene Canarraci did not deny that the barrels contained unlawful liquor but he insisted that it was only kept for family use and that not a drop of it had been sold.

The raid, according to the police, has netted one of the biggest amounts of unlawful liquor ever obtained in St. Joseph county. There was very little room for storing the barrels at the police station and the city hall and the raiders were forced to man several large trucks, bring in the supply of wet goods and stock it all around the cages where the prisoners are kept.

Forty-four barrels of wine, the product of two raids, are now stored in the city hall. "Only we have no place to store it, I would keep on raiding tonight and bring in over 100 more barrels," said the chief.

The bringing in of the wine was still employing all available trucks and helpers at press time this morning.

LINCOLN THEATRE.
"Alias Ladyfinger," a photodrama dealing with the career of a safe cracker who is decidedly out of the ordinary run of such individuals, is the latest Bert Lytell picture, which on Monday will be shown at the Lincoln theatre. This swiftly moving story of an accidental criminal is a Bayard Veiller production for Metro, and it reflects that full dramatic quality which won Mr. Veiller such a reputation in the theatrical world by his "The Thirteenth Chair" and "Within the Law."

Mr. Lytell portrays the character of the young man who, educated by a notorious crook as a safe breaker, visits the home where he is being sought as the heir, and in the course of his relationship plans to ply his calling, resulting in many tense situations. Supporting Mr. Lytell are Ora Carew, Frank Elliott, Elytha Chapman, DeWitt Jennings and Stanley Washburn.

The adaptation from Jackson Gregory's story, Arthur Martinelli was the photographer and A. E. Freudenman the art director.

MISHAWAKA HIGH BEATEN BY NILES IN FAST BATTLE

Maroon and White Quintet Unable to Cope With Passing of Michiganites.

A combination of short passes and excellent basket shooting on the part of the Niles high school quintet resulted in a big victory for the Michigan team over Mishawaka high at Battelle's gymnasium last night by a score of 27-10.

Starting off with a rapid free attack, the Mishawaka five registered a basket at the beginning of the fracas, but Niles evened the score in a moment's time. A cheer resounded in the gymnasium as the largest group ever to witness a high school game here saw Hostwick throw a free basket, putting the home team in the lead by one point.

The period ended with Niles in the lead by two points, the score being 19 to 8.

Two free shots in the second period were the only pointers that could be gained by the locals, while the Niles aggregation stirred by their slight lead, went to work in earnest and added 17 points.

Mishawaka's team minus the services of Gerrard, consisted of Doyle, Hostwick, Elber, Lehr and Lovell. They fought hard to win a game on which much depended, but the better passing of the Niles five was too much for them to overcome.

Whats the Matter in the Movies? Sky Pilot Blames High Salaries

NEW YORK, Feb. 10.—John Roach Straton, famous Baptist minister of Calvary Baptist church, "lurped the devil around the stump" today when he discussed the morals of movie folk and the Taylor murder mystery in a special interview.

"What a magnificent speech," said motion picture executives. Think what that means. And the leading stars before the public, almost without exception have speeches on their records."

"Now comes a culmination of all this rottenness in the movie world. There was the Boston roadhouse disclosure and now at Hollywood the Arbuckle and the Taylor case. Some of our leading stars are appearing in a most unenviable light."

"The dollar mark is stamped all over the whole motion picture industry," he continued. "The industry shouldn't be whitewashed, it should be washed white, and that is a totally different thing. Unless evil tendencies now apparent are wiped away, there is danger that the entire nation may be debauched."

Poincare Distrusts Economic Conference, While Harding Disfavors It.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 10.—France's thinly veiled distrust of the Genoa economic conference as revealed today in Premier Poincare's note to the United States and allied governments is expected here to put a final quietus on the advancement of plans for holding the parley March 5, the date originally set by the British-Italian promoters.

Although for different reasons, the French and American governments now find themselves on virtually the same ground with regard to the Genoa conference. Both are opposed to it, and the belief was general here today that against the combined opposition, the British and Italians can do little else but call it off, or postpone it three months, as Poincare suggested.

The French government's new note, that the conference aims have not been sufficiently made clear, and that March 5 is too early a date, anyway, is a fair reflection of the administration's attitude today, even though Paris and Washington arrived at these conclusions through different methods and for different reasons.

France is revealed by the Poincare notes as being suspicious of the Genoa meeting because she fears Russia may be accepted into the society of nations without guaranteeing to make reparation for past shortcomings.

Lenine As U. S. Equal.
The United States is skeptical of the conference because the administration feels that Europe has not attempted to help herself by reducing armies and balancing budgets, because it is suspected there will be talk of "canceling war debts" and, lastly, there is distinct aversion to sitting down and dealing with Lenine and Trotsky as equals.

One result of the French notes may be to relieve the administration of the embarrassing duty of giving the Genoa invitation a flat turn down.

It was expected that formal announcement would be made late today after the cabinet meeting, of America's attitude toward the Genoa conference. The result of the French note, however, may result in a postponement of this announcement. Pres. Harding and his advisers may decide to wait and see the reception accorded the French note in London and Bern before making any flat pronouncement of America's intentions. If Great Britain and Italy want to cancel or postpone the meeting at France's behest, it is entirely agreeable to this government.
